California Department of Toxic Substances Control to Host International 'Greening of Electronics' Symposium

8:30 a.m. Thursday February, 19, 2009
Symposium on "The Greening of Electronics in a Global Economy"
Cal/EPA Building
Byron Sher Auditorium
2nd Floor
1001 I Street
Sacramento, CA 95812
Webcast: <http://www.calepa.ca.gov/broadcast/>

The Department of Toxic Substances Control (DTSC) and Intertek will host a symposium on "The Greening of Electronics in a Global Economy." The day-long symposium will provide business and government enforcement agency stakeholders the opportunity to learn about:

- Current laws regulating hazardous materials in electronic products
- Future international legislation and regulatory requirements
- Approaches to compliance
- Green trends

The symposium will run from 8:30 a.m. until 5:15 p.m., and will also be offered via Web cast.

Intel Vice President and General Manager of Manufacturing and Supply Chain Brian Krzanich, who is responsible for all aspects of Intel's factories and operations worldwide, will serve as keynote speaker. Other presenters include:

- Maureen Gorsen, Director of the California Department of Toxic Substances Control
- Dr. Ruud Overbeek, Intertek
- Judy Glazer, Hewlett Packard
- Ken Rivlin, Allen & Overy
- Joe Johnson, Cisco Systems
- Göran Gabling, Swedish Enforcement Agency
- Henrick Hagen Olesen, Danish EPA
- Julie Schoenug, UC Davis

DTSC's co-sponsor of the symposium, Intertek, is a leading provider of quality and safety services to a wide range of global and local industries. The company provides testing, inspection and certification of products, commodities and systems and many other services.
